

FRANK BATTEN SCHOOL of LEADERSHIP and PUBLIC POLICY

Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Economics, Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for one or more tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in Public Policy and Economics to begin Fall 2022. Fields of interest include, but are not limited to: labor, public, health, environmental, education, and development economics. Within these fields, we have a special interest in policy-relevant research related to: race, inequality, economic/social stratification, behavioral economics, and social insurance/social protection programs.

Candidates are expected to have completed their Doctoral degrees in Economics, Quantitative Public Policy, or a closely related field by August 1, 2022. We are interested in individuals currently completing their PhD and those at the advanced Assistant Professor level. The successful candidate will have: a promising research trajectory; an interest in working and providing professional service in a cross-disciplinary environment; and the ability to teach core MPP courses in areas such as microeconomics, research methods, and policy analysis. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at the Batten School, a commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is expected.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The core faculty includes economists, political scientists, social psychologists, and Professors of Practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The school offers a Masters of Public Policy alongside its Bachelor of Arts program, several dual-degree offerings, and an emerging executive education program. While the primary appointment will be in the Batten School, a joint/courtesy appointment could be possible in one of the other schools of the university depending on the candidate's qualifications.

COVID Vaccination Requirement

The University of Virginia expects all current and new employees (UVA Health System and Academic), to be vaccinated against COVID-19.

If hired to work within the University Health System, you will be required to provide proof of vaccination or be willing to receive the vaccination. Employees may request a medical or religious exemption from vaccination.

If hired to work on the Academic side of the University, excluding the School of Medicine, School of Nursing, UPG, and the Health Systems Library, you will be required to provide proof of vaccination or be willing to submit to mandatory, weekly prevalence testing. Employees that are working 100% remotely will not be subject to weekly prevalence testing; however, if the employee works on UVA Grounds (including the Medical Center) even intermittently, then they are required to be tested for COVID-19 once per week on an indefinite basis and follow masking mandates.

NOTE: Some medical and safety-sensitive positions require vaccination and are not eligible for an exemption. For more information on how the vaccination and testing requirements will apply to you at your work location, see the UVA New Hire Vaccination Requirements webpage.

The University of Virginia, including the UVA Health System which represents the UVA Medical Center, Schools of Medicine and Nursing, UVA Physician's Group and the Claude Moore Health Sciences Library, are fundamentally committed to the diversity of our faculty and staff. We believe diversity is excellence expressing itself through every person's perspectives and lived experiences. We are equal opportunity and affirmative action employers. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, marital status, national or ethnic origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, veteran status, and family medical or genetic information.
